EVALUATION QUESTIONNAIRES

Evaluation questionnaires will be distributed by the college in classes this week. The questionnaires are submitted to you to evaluate the effectiveness of the faculty and to learn ways in which the instruction may be improved. The instructor is interested in your reactions to the course and the way he or she presents it. Your answers may be taken into consideration in determining whether changes are needed in coverage and presentation. The questionnaires are anonymous and will not be available to the professor until after the grades for the course are recorded.

Following is a course description for the American Legal History Course being offered by Anthony Roeber on Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:00 p.m.

American Legal History

A survey of the main themes in American Legal History with a concentration on English and early American antecedents to the first constitutional system ending in 1861. Special attention will be paid to both private and public law and to the role of the judiciary and the bar in American culture. The goal of the course will be to provide law students with a general interpretative framework for the traditional law school curriculum. There will be a final examination or an optional paper.

Constitutional Law II – Professor Harris

A make-up class will be held Tuesday, April 9, at 11:45 a.m. in Room 224.

Students Who Plan To Join The Environmental And Energy Law Program For The First Time In Fall, 1991

Welcome to the Program in Environmental and Energy Law! We will admit to the Program for next year all students who ask to join. To join, send a letter to us, as soon as possible, indicating your intention to do so, delivered to Professor Deutsch in room 633. If you have a special background or experience, or a particular interest, please include the information in the letter. However, we will allow you to join the program as late as the start of the Fall, 1991 semester.

The condition for joining the Program is that you commit yourself to take the group of 5 courses and seminars during the remainder of your law school career. Additional information about the Program and courses is available in the Program brochure, found in the Admissions Office and Professor Deutsch's office (room 633). Also, either Professor Deutsch (ext. 5040, room 633) or Professor Tarlock (ext. 5713, room 506) will be happy to talk with you.

Course Information

As a new participant in the Program, you should be sure to register for both Environmental Law and Economic and Public Policy Analysis of Environmental Problems for Fall, 1991, if you are a day student. Both courses will meet in the late afternoon, so you can expect to have classes three afternoons lasting until 5:55. (Indeed, it is likely that all courses for the program will meet in the late afternoon or evening because we can offer only one section.) If you are an evening student, please take either or both of the courses if you can fit them into your schedule. Please be sure to speak with Professor Deutsch (room 633, 567-5040) if you cannot take either course.

In the Spring, 1992 semester, please plan to take The Scientific Analysis of Environmental Problems (usually offered two days each week from 4:30-5:55).

The following year (1992-1993, or over the following two years if you are an evening student), you should plan to take Land Use in the Fall and an environmental seminar (which will satisfy the seminar requirement for graduation). Because of the number of advanced students in the Program, we are offering five seminars during the 1991-1992 academic year (Energy and Natural Resources Law, Environmental Regulation of Real Estate Development, Hazardous Waste Regulation, International Environmental Law and Water Law). We will offer an appropriate number of seminars during the 1992-1993 academic year, based on the number of students who are in the program.

Assuming you complete the courses and seminar in the Program, you also will have satisfied your Advanced Research requirement for graduation, as of the writing of this memo. However, it is possible that we will institute a requirement that you take an environmental section of Advanced Research, because the highly specialized research demands placed on specialists in this area requires more intense training than currently can be obtained in the substantive courses. We will let you know no later than the start of the Fall, 1991 semester.

Many additional opportunities are available for students in the program. Please see Professor Deutsch or Professor Tarlock for additional information.

Continuing Members of the Environmental and Energy Law Program

This Record notice will remind you of the courses and seminars you should take next year and the other opportunities available to members of the program. You should have received a longer version of this notice by E-Mail. Please contact Professor Deutsch if you didn't receive the E-Mail message.

IF YOU NOW ARE A second year full time student, this academic year you should have taken Environmental Law, Economic and Public Policy Analysis of Environmental Problems and Scientific Analysis of Environmental Problems. Next fall, you should register for Land Use (Professor Bosselman, Monday and Wednesday at 6:00 p.m.). In addition, next year you should take one of the five seminars offered for the program. (You must take a seminar to satisfy the law school's graduation requirements as well as the program's requirements.) The seminars will be: International Environmental Law (Professor Tarlock, Fall, 1991), Water Resources Law (Professor Tarlock, Spring, 1992), Hazardous Waste Regulation (Professor Deutsch, Spring, 1992), Environmental Regulation of Real Estate (Professor Bosselman, Spring, 1992) and Energy and Natural Resources Law (Professors Haffenden and Recht, Spring, 1992). If space is available, you may be allowed to take two seminars.

IF YOU NOW ARE A second year evening student, this academic year you couldn't take Environmental Law or Economic and Public Policy Analysis of Environmental Problems. Please register for both of them for Fall, 1991. If you cannot, then register for at least one. Register for the Scientific Analysis of Environmental Problems for Spring, 1992. During the next two years, you should also take Land Use and a seminar. The five seminars available next year (which you cannot take) are set out in the paragraph for day students, above. A group of (probably similar) seminars will be offered during 1992-1993 and 1993-1994.

IF YOU NOW ARE A third year evening student, you should have taken Environmental Law, Economic and Public Policy Analysis of Environmental Problems and Scientific Analysis of Environmental Problems. You should take Land Use in the fall (Professor Bosselman, Monday and Wednesday at 6:00 p.m.) and one of the five seminars set out in the paragraph to second year day students, above.

Please contact Professor Deutsch or Tarlock to discuss other opportunities related to the program.

New Course for Fall 1991 – Empirical Litigation – Professor Smith

Attorneys increasingly find that civil and criminal actions raise issues requiring a knowledge of social science methods and statistical techniques. Trademark litigation may involve the introduction of public opinion surveys to demonstrate consumer confusion. Statistical evidence may play a significant role in proving a violation of a federal job discrimination statute. Attorneys involved in complex litigation concerning large sums of money may retain jury selection experts (who have training in social science methods and statistics) at an average cost of $100,000 to $150,000 per case.

This two-hour course will examine basic social science research methods, social science theories, and statistical techniques and their application to civil and criminal actions. The course will focus on cases in which courts have grappled with the application of such methods, theories, and techniques. Cases will be supplemented with a variety of background materials. Because the focus of the course will be on practical application, problems will be used in which students will apply what they learn to practice situations.

The course will NOT be a course in research methods and statistics. All research methods and statistical techniques will be taught at an introductory level. A background in research methodology and statistics is not necessary.

Sample topics include: the jurisprudential origins of social science in law; basic science research methods and statistical techniques; the use of social science methodology in trademark and discrimination litigation; the use of social science methodology and theories in constitutional litigation; and the use of social science methods and theories in choosing a venue, a jury, and jury instructions.

There will be a paper in lieu of a final examination.

If you any have any questions, please stop by Professor Smith's office (Room 211), call him at x8895, or send him an e-mail (KSMITH/PROFNET).

FACULTY NEWS

During the spring break Professor Lloyd Cohen flew to Los Angeles to be interviewed by KCET public television on the subject of creating a market in transplant tissue. The interview will be aired four times at the end of April on their show entitled "By The Year 2000."

Professor Cohen has been asked to address a joint meeting of the American Society of Transplant Surgeons and the American Society of Transplant Physicians on the same subject at the end of May.

RESEARCH ASSISTANTS NEEDED

Professor Randy Barnett is seeking a paid research assistant for the summer. The likely topic will be the Ninth Amendment and the protection of unenumerated rights. All students may apply, but former members of Professor Barnett's criminal law class are especially encouraged. Leave a resume with Bill Morse in the faculty suite on the third floor.

Professor Anita Bernstein is seeking research assistants with reading knowledge of any foreign language (especially Chinese, French, German, Japanese, Latin, Russian or Spanish) to help gather materials for her seminar on comparative tort law. The research would take place in late spring after exams and might, but need not, continue thereafter. Applicants should own an English/foreign language dictionary. Students who would like to research the law of Africa or Australia need not know another language but should be familiar with American tort law and the traditions of these continents. Because of the short-term nature of the project, only pay and not credit can be given as compensation. Applicants may leave a resume and a description of language skills with Shearita Williams on the third floor.

Professor Ralph Brill is seeking a second- or third-year student to work an average of 20 hours per week, researching Illinois tort law. The student selected also may continue to work through the summer. Please see Professor Brill in Room 216, or drop off a resume in his mailbox in the college office.

Professor Sheldon Nahmod is seeking several research assistants to work 6-8 hours per week over the summer (possibly spilling over into the fall) to work with him in the civil rights area. Students interested in constitutional litigation are especially encouraged to apply. Call him at 567-5761 or stop by to see him in Room 504 as soon as possible.

Professor Richard Wright is seeking one or more students to assist him in research during the summer of 1991, with a possibility, if the student so desires, of continuing during the Fall 1991 semester. The research will be on principles of liability -- primarily tort liability but also related criminal liability issues. The research topics will range from theoretical analysis of the moral foundations of liability to doctrinal analysis of the principles actually applied by the courts (in the U.S. and elsewhere) to empirical analysis of the actual operation of the liability systems. Any student may apply, although preference will be given to students from Professor Wright's Torts and Justice courses. Interested students should submit a resume to Professor Wright or Bill Morse (outside Room 311).

1991 GRADUATES: ADDITIONAL PHOTO OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE

The photographer for the graduation composite has scheduled additional photo opportunities at the law school on April 24-25. Those who missed having their photo taken during the week of March 11 and who want to have a graduation picture should see Barbara Clemmer in Room 221 to schedule a photo session and to make all necessary arrangements to participate in the graduation ceremony.

Attention 1991 Graduates

If you set for your photo during the week of March 11, please see Barbara Clemmer to pick up your proofs today in Room 221.

CAREER SERVICES NEWS

Fifth Annual Patent Law Interview Program

Attention all students interested in patent law!! The Fifth Annual Chicago Patent Law Interview Program will be held August 16-18, 1991 at the Guest Quarters Suites Hotel (198 E. Delaware St.). As in past years, this interviewing fair will be sponsored by approximately 40 midwestern law schools and will be attended by patent law employers from around the country. Traditionally, patent employers seek students with a technical background in engineering or science. If you will be a second- or third-year student next fall, possess a technical undergraduate degree and are interested in the field of patent law, you are strongly encouraged to participate in this program. Many patent employers participate only in specialized patent recruitment fairs such as this and, therefore, will not participate in the fall on-campus interview program.

Because all program planning is completed during the summer months, we must know now how many students plan to participate and where we can reach them during the summer. Registration forms are now available in the Career Services Office; registration deadline is April 25. Students who register will be notified during the summer as to when employer information will be available and preference selections must be made. This information will be forwarded only to those students who have met the April 25th registration deadline.

1991 NALP National Apartment Exchange

MALS Luncheon

The annual spring MALS luncheon is coming up. We normally hold the lunch at the end of April or early May. We would like to schedule it so that as many students as possible can attend. Since we will be having the lunch catered, we need to know well in advance how many will be attending. We also need to hear from the MALS students themselves to hear whether or not they would like to participate (hint-you better, please!) The lunch is an informal way for students to learn about the legal educational system and practice of law in various foreign countries. Please sign-up on the bulletin board and note a date/time that works for you.

SBA Spring Semester 1991 Calendar of Events

|-------------|---|
| April 8-11 | Law Week |
| April 11 | Keynote Speaker |
| April 12 | Barrister's Bash, Ambassador West Hotel |
| April 16-17 | Elections |

The Board of Governors meetings will be held in Room 303. There will be many additions to this schedule so check your mailbox, the SBA office, the Record and e-mail.

Law Week Keynote Speaker

On April 11, at 4 p.m., Arthur Kinoy, Professor of Law, will be the Keynote speaker at Chicago-Kent's Law Week celebration. Professor Kinoy can be described as a "people's lawyer," and has devoted his career to being an advocate for individuals and causes involved in the central legal issues of our time, invariably on behalf of those who could not otherwise obtain adequate legal representation.

In the 1950's, he represented victims of Senator Joe McCarthy and the House Un-American Activities Committee. In the 1960's, Professor Kinoy became involved in the civil rights crusade in the South. He successfully litigated the landmark case of Dombrowski v. Pfister, in which the U.S. Supreme Court extended federal protection of the First Amendment rights to civil rights workers. During this time, Professor Kinoy established the Center for Constitutional Rights and to this day acts as vice-president of the organization. Today, the Center for Constitutional Rights is one of the most significant public interest law centers in the country.

In subsequent years, Professor Kinoy briefed and argued United States v. United States District Court, in which the Supreme Court rejected the claims of the Nixon Administration to "inherent power" to engage in wiretapping, and Powell v. McCormick, holding unconstitutional the exclusion of Representative Adam Clayton Powell from the U.S. House of Representatives.

Professor Kinoy is a man of unbounded energy and charisma. His lecture will prove to be exciting and interesting. You won't want to miss this event. So mark your calendars now!!

Student Bar Association Election

Elections for Student Bar Association positions will take place on April 16-17, from 11:30 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m. In addition to SBA officer and representative positions, the school elects representatives to the law school divisions of various professional bar associations. The Student Bar Association is an excellent vehicle by which to become more involved in Chicago-Kent. SBA members sit on faculty committees, and are otherwise active in representing the Chicago-Kent student body.

In addition to a general election of the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, four representatives each will be elected for next year's second and third year day divisions, and two representatives each will be elected for next year's second, third and fourth year night divisions. Next fall, a special election will be held to elect first year representatives. One day student and one night student will be elected to represent Chicago-Kent on the American Bar Association/Law Student Division. One representative each will also be elected for the Illinois and Chicago Bar Associations.

Students interested in running for any position should stop by the SBA office immediately and pick up a petition for candidacy. Candidates for representative positions must procure 10 student signatures; for officer positions (president, vice president, secretary, treasurer), 20 signatures.
